Look Over Here!

Just look at all there is to see on these colorful playing pieces!

All sorts of animals – from a little chick to a cow. Happy children, different kinds of trees, meadows and fields, a pond full of fish, walls, roofs, doors and windows for cozy farm cottages and stalls. And there are pieces of sky in all variations: sun, clouds, rainbow and just plain blue.

Dear Parents,

Each of these pictures and details speaks for itself.

Children need no instructions to create their own fantasy-filled compositions.

For the three-year old it is helpful if the mother or father explains the individual names and combinations. Soon the child can create not only a picture world of his own, but also stories to go with it. There are no limits to the possibilities for creativity.

The child can place and change as he wishes: a big square or a free-form design, using all 80 pieces or just special details, creating as he plays or working with a set pattern in mind. The more open and unregimented the play, the more creative and encouraging for speech development it is. Playing in a group where all the children work together can be just as much fun as creating a personal little paradise alone.
